Universidad EAFIT
School of Business Administration
Department of International Business
Academic Area of International Relations
Lecturer/ Assistant Professor/ Associate Professor

Universidad EAFIT was founded in 1960 as Colombia's first business school and since then it has grown into a university with more than 22,000 students pertaining to 21 undergraduate, 79 graduate (Masters and Graduate Diplomas) and 4 PhD programs.

The Department of International Business offers Colombia's leading undergraduate International Business program with over 1,200 students. It also offers a Master in International Business (MIB), postgraduate diploma in International Business, and the IB department is a forerunner in International Business research in the country. To expand its international full-time staff, the Department is opening new academic positions about International Relations Academic Area, starting in July/August 2013

Candidates should have received their Ph.D. or be near completion in an International Relations-related field and have a demonstrated track record of publications and teaching in the areas of international relations, political science, political studies or related fields. Excellent English communication skills are a must and Spanish language abilities a plus.

The newly recruited academic is expected to teach international relations courses in English at the undergraduate and graduate levels and to undertake research in the same academic area. Publication in top-tier journals is expected and supported.

Potential candidates should email a CV and letter of interest describing research and teaching interests, by July 12th 2013 at the latest, to:
