PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES UNCTAD

Kalman Kalotay is an Economic Affairs Officer at UNCTAD’s Division on Investment and Enterprise. Currently he is part of the team that prepares the UNCTAD Investment Policy Reviews. Between October 1996 and September 2009 he worked with UNCTAD’s World Investment Report team. He also served as associate (1996-2003) and deputy editor (2003-2004) of UNCTAD’s Transnational Corporations journal. Previously, he worked on issues related to economic cooperation among developing countries (1990–1996). Before joining the United Nations, Mr. Kalotay taught international economics at the Corvinus University in Budapest, Hungary (1983-1990). He holds a PhD in International Economics from the same university. His work and publications focus mainly on foreign direct investment in various regions and countries of the world, with special attention to economies in transition.

Michael Lim is an Economic Affairs Officer at UNCTAD’s Division on Technology and Logistics. He works on technology and innovation issues. In particular, he prepares the Science, Technology and Innovation Policy (STIP) Reviews of developing countries, which aim to evaluate the science, technology and innovation capabilities and technological and innovative performance of a country, and review the national policies on STI development. Michael has also worked on various other issues of direct relevance to development in developing countries, including foreign direct investment, foreign portfolio investment and capital market development, international capital flows, financial crises and external debt. Before joining UNCTAD in 1995 he worked for the Central Bank of The Bahamas in the areas of banking systems, financial regulation, monetary policy, balance of payments and international trade.

Alfredo Calcagno is an Argentinian economist. He holds a PhD in Economic Sciences from the University of Paris I. In Argentina, he worked at the Ministry of Economy (1984-85), the Central Bank (1986-87) and the Centre of International Economy (1988-89). He was also Professor of Economics at the National University of La Plata (1986-89). In 1989 he joined the United Nations as Economic Affairs Officer at the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC). He joined UNCTAD’s Division on Globalization and Development Strategies in 2003. In October 2011 he was appointed Head of the Macroeconomic and Development Policies Branch and currently leads the team that prepares the Trade and Development Report.

Rolf Traegercoordinates the work of research on least developed countries (LDCs) in UNCTAD and undertakes capacity building activities on development strategies and policies. He leads the team which writes UNCTAD’s Least Developed Countries Report, which he has co-authored since 2007. He has been working since 1991 as an economist for the United Nations. During the period 1999-2006 he worked at the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE), where he co-authored UNECE’s Economic Survey of Europe. His main research interests include: development strategies and policies, poverty, structural change, technology, international trade and economic geography.

Piergiuseppe Fortunato is an Economic Affairs Officer at UNCTAD’s Division for Africa, Least Developed Countries and Special Programmes. Before joining UNCTAD, he was an economist at the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UNDESA) in New York. In the past he held a position of Assistant Professor in Economics at the University of Bologna (Italy) and was a research fellow at the Université Paris I Panthéon Sorbonne (France). His research interests include long-term growth and political economy, economic development and South-South integration.
